

Less than 0.5% of Ontario's provincial forests are harvested each year.

#ItTakesAForest

In Ontario, our forest resources are managed through consultations with biologists, foresters, government, ecologists, First Nations, and the general public. Together, we're implementing some of the most sustainable forestry practices in the world.

All Ontarians should be proud of how we manage our forests. Our strong and rigorous regulatory framework balances the social, economic, and environmental values so that our forests will be here for everyone for generations to come. Join the conversation and encourage your friends and family to learn more at ittakesaforest.ca.

#ItTakesAForest is a collaborative led by Forests Ontario and local, like-minded individuals and organizations. It aims to deliver fact-based information to the public about the role of forests and forest products in our growing economy, addressing climate change, and creating a healthier ecosystem.
